Bill Parker & Renée Leopardi

Noyes Gallery at Shore Medical Center

Bill Parker is a creative problem solver first and a painter second. With a background in creative advertising, he has applied his knowledge of layout and design to his artwork. Over the past few years, he has enjoyed the challenges of plein-air painting. Never knowing what to expect, it allows him to be in the moment and capture the beauty of the day. As a non-traditional studio painter, he works mostly outdoors and finalizes the details indoors. He lets the paint and color tell the story.

Renée Leopardi grew up in Cincinnati, Ohio. She studied at the University of Cincinnati and attained an associate degree in Liberal Arts. Later in life, she embarked on a career in the arts. Her most recent work is in pastels. Through her studies, she found that working with pastels can be quick and expressive in a way she hadn't experienced before. Pastels have also altered her overall painting style, giving it the feeling of an Impressionist painting. Living in southern New Jersey since 2002, she finds inspiration in the local seasonal landscapes - from the ocean and marshes to the creeks and woods and the farmlands.
